

THE MIDTOWN SUMMER ADVISING PROGRAM

June 10 - July 28, 2024

Chicago, IL

Be a Midtown Advisor

Midtown's summer advising program prepares college men to be exceptional professionals, loyal friends, and strong fathers by providing them the opportunity and challenge of mentoring inner-city boys and being life-changing role models for them. Through their example and friendship, advisors inspire each boy to overcome challenges and achieve the personal, academic, and spiritual excellence for which he was created.

service

At the core of the summer advisor program is service to others. Throughout the seven weeks, advisors are challenged to dedicate their energies to serve their team of inner-city boys and also their fellow advisors. The program is designed to help advisors grow in their ability to serve others and to make service to others a defining motivation for their life.

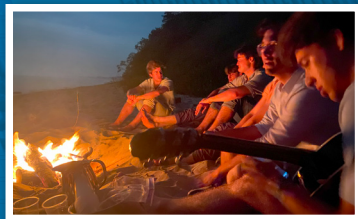

professionalism

A central goal of the program is preparing advisors for the rigors and responsibilities of professional life. The demands of the role challenge advisors to refine their initiative, accountability, and ingenuity, among other qualities of a good professional. In addition, the advising program features numerous exemplary professionals as guest speakers and opportunities for professional mentoring.

friendship

The summer program is an occasion for each advisor to significantly deepen his capacity for friendship. In addition to the daily advising component, advisors live together in a family-style residence, forming an essential and equally important opportunity for growth in fraternity and the virtue of friendship. The family life of the advisors includes daily get-togethers and discussions, weekend excursions, and visits to sites of cultural significance in Chicago.

ABOUT MIDTOWN SUMMER PROGRAMS

Every summer, Midtown guides over two hundred inner city 4th-12th grade boys to personal and academic excellence. Through academic classes, sports, and individual mentoring, each boy is personally challenged to develop the character traits necessary for his future success as a professional, husband, and father. Midtown seeks to give participants the interior strength to confront the challenges of poverty, broken families, crime, addiction, etc., plaguing their communities.

About Midtown Center for boys

Midtown is a supplementary educational program serving 4th-12th grade boys from low-income families in the city of Chicago. Since 1965 Midtown has provided academic enrichment, character education, individual attention, and extracurricular activities for students, and parenting classes and discussions for parents.

Midtown Achievement Center is operated by Midtown-Metro Achievement Centers, a non-profit organization. Midtown's Christian orientation is entrusted to Opus Dei, a personal Prelature of the Catholic Church (www.opusdei.org).
